This application (in C++) requires Oracle 7.3.3 or higher. So, we installed Oracle 8.1.7. But our application requires Oracle 7.3.3 or higher. And our DBA says that we have to change the binaries for Oracle 8.1.7. But our application runs on both Oracle 7.3.3 or higher and Oracle 8.1.7. So, what can we do? Thanks. A: Your DBA may be correct. To upgrade the Oracle 8.1.7 binaries to be more compatible with the newer versions of Oracle, you need to apply the patches that were created for 8.1.7 when Oracle 8.1.7 was released. (See Oracle Database 8.1.7 Security Patch Set Documentation for details) But it is also possible to have the application run on Oracle 7.3.3. Simply recompile it to use Oracle 8.1.7. You don't need to install Oracle 8.1.7 at all. package com.mcxiaoke.next.sdk.adapter; import android.support.v7.widget.RecyclerView; import com.mcxiaoke.next.sdk.R; / * @author mcxiaoke */ public class CardHolder extends RecyclerView.ViewHolder { public CardHolder(View view) { super(view); } @Override public void onBindViewH 82157476af
